Youth Leader to Hold Meeting In Lincoln Estates

The Rev. Henry L. Harms, evangelist and youth leader of Wheaton, Ill., will conduct a youth meeting at the Calvary Baptist church, Lincoln Estates, Frankfort, Ill., Sunday morning January 27th, from 10:00 to 12:00 o'clock during the regular Bible school hour and the morning worship period.

HENRY L. HARMS

"Uncle Henry" as he is affectionately known to the thousands of youngsters and grownups, brings with him his "Wonder Box", gospel magic and motion pictures, with a new surprise program daily streamlined to the interests of youth.

Mr. Harms often draws hundreds of young folks, high lighting his programs with unique contests and prizes. He represents the Youth Gospel Crusade, a faith missionary project reaching youngsters of all ages in many parts of the middlewest.

The Rev. Chester S. Rosborough, will be guest speaker at the evening service at 8:00 pm. He was for eleven years connected with the Moody Bible Institute, and now is the pastor of the Ainslie Baptist church in Chicago.

The public is cordially invited to each of these meetings.

ALPINE MAN FINDS WEATHER FORECASTING BALLOON

While hunting in his cornfield Tuesday morning August Link Jr. of Alpine noticed his pet water Spaniel dragging a piece of red and white material which had become entangled in his collar. When he examined it close it was found to be a silk balloon containing delicate Government Weather Forecasting equipment.

According to data enclosed the balloon had been released from the Airport at Joliet on Jan. 20 and supposedly after soaring to its maximum height of 12 miles had burst and slowly floated to earth landing in Mr. Link's cornfield. He read the directions enclosed and promptly took the balloon and its contents to the closest post-office at Mokena, where it was forwarded to the proper authorities. "It seems there's never a dull moment in Alpine" said Mr. Link.

MUNROE TO SPEAK AT FARMERS' MEETING

Fred Munroe, well known hatchery man and feed dealer from Joliet, will be the principle speaker at the Marley Farm Life Program on Tuesday evening, January 29, at 8:00 p.m.

Mr. Munroe will speak on the subject "Making the Farm Flock Pay". This will be one of the three meetings during the winter when the men and women combine classes to discuss this topic in which they are both interested.

At the meeting, which was held last Tuesday evening, Mr. Byron Gaskill spoke on the subject "Should the Triple A and Subsidy Payments be Discontinued?" The meeting was very well attended and an excellent discussion followed the topic by Mr. Gaskill.

SCHOOL DAZE

Where will you be February 2 at 8 pm? In a daze? Yes, if you bought a ticket from the PTA you can have an evening of fun and entertainment.

School Daze, is a comedy presented by Compass Chorus and sponsored by the Tinley Park PTA.

After the program there will be dancing until 12 o'clock. Music by Del Hamelens' orchestra.

Clifford Mahoney Late of Mokena Dies In Calif.

Mrs. Elmer Benson of Mokena received a telegram Monday morning from Mr. Floyd Arogon of Los Angeles, Cal., saying that Clifford Mahoney of Mokena and a neighbor of Mrs. Benson's had died at 3:15 o'clock the same morning in Los Angeles. No details were given as to cause of death.

Mr. Arogon is a jeweler for whom Clifford was working as a watch repairer. The latter wrote occasionally to the Benson's and it is thought his employer found their address as the only persons he could contact in Mokena.

Mrs. Benson contacted distant relatives of Clifford's and they had promised to let her know if they wanted the body to be shipped here for burial, but up to Thursday night nothing further was heard from the relatives. It is presumed Clifford was buried in California.

Clifford was 31 years old and had been in poor health for years. He had been making his home with his grandmother Mrs. Mary Mau in Mokena.

Last summer thru the assistance of Supervisor Wm. Kampe of Frankfort Township, he was enabled to learn the watch makers trade in Elgin with state aid. After completing the course, Mr. Arogon of Los Angeles offered him a job in his jewelry store and Clifford accepted. He made the trip to California by bus and in letters written after he was on the job he said he liked it very much and also liked the California climate. He did not indicate in his letters that his health was any worse than what it had been. Clifford, who was a sufferer of asthma and bronchial trouble most all his life, was a bright young man and whatever he did, was very exactly and perfectly done. He was much interested in photography and at one time worked along this line.

Shortly after leaving Mokena, his grandmother became ill and being alone and unable to care for herself, she was taken to the Manteno hospital where she has since remained.

Clifford's nearest of kin is his grandmother. His mother died a number of years ago.

He was employed by The News-Bulletin at one time.

YOUNG FARMERS DISCUSS PORK PRODUCTION

Young farmers' meeting at the Agriculture Department of the Joliet Township High school on Monday evening will continue their discussion of pork production during the coming week.

At the meeting, which was held last Monday evening, this subject was introduced and it was found to be of such interest to the group that another evening is to be devoted to it.

Such phases of the pork business as proper feeding of gilts, methods of saving baby pigs, and methods of raising healthy profitable stock will be studied at the meeting Monday evening. Also at the meeting, a short motion picture will be shown titled "Reconditioning a Grain Drill" and a few more rings of live stock will be judged.

The athletic committee wishes to announce that the group will have use of the gym for an hour after the class meeting and suggests that all class members bring gym shoes.

R. I. WAITING ROOM AT MOKENA COLD ON SUNDAYS

Ever since the Rock Island railroad discontinued the interlocking plant at Mokena they have also reduced the hours of the agent who is only on duty until four o'clock in the afternoon and off duty Sundays and holidays. This means that the fire in the waiting room stove will not hold from Saturday afternoon until Monday morning with the result that the waiting room is ice cold Sunday.

The Rock Island has a good passenger traffic from Mokena and it is too bad that the railroad does not look out any better for the comfort of their patrons. They surely could arrange in some manner to keep the Mokena waiting room warm on Sunday.

BAG TWO FOXES IN ORLAND PARK FOX HUNT

Last Sunday afternoon a good sized crowd of fox hunters trailed six foxes to within the neighborhood of the Stanley Cooper farm. One fox was shot, another was wounded and four got away. There will be another fox hunt at Orland this Sunday afternoon.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Rickerman of Alpine, wish to thank the members of the Orland and Mokena Community Volunteer Fire Departments and all neighbors and friends who helped to save their barn and chickens during the fire at their home last Tuesday morning.

TINLEY LEGION MEMBERSHIP NOW AT 125 MEMBERS

The Tinley Park Legion Post No. 615 has the largest membership this year than it has ever had. The roster contains 126 names. More new members veterans of World War II are to be installed at the next meeting.

Death Claims Old Time Tinley Shoemaker

George Schreiber, aged 86 years, who has been a resident of Tinley Park for over half a century, died last Saturday afternoon in the home of his son Louis in Bloomington, Michigan. He was stricken with the flu shortly before Christmas but had recovered from this when other ailments developed.

Mr. Schreiber was born in Muehlhausen, Germany, January 7, 1860. Sixty-five years ago he came to America, locating first in Pottsville, Pa., a mining town. Later he located in Goeleville, now 147th St., and Oak Park Ave., and became the first mail carrier in the Tinley region, carrying the mail to and from the Tinley Park post office to the Goeleville post office of which C. Goessel was postmaster. Mr. Schreiber made the trip on foot three times a week.

After a few years Mr. Schreiber located in Tinley Park opening a shoe repair shop in one of the first buildings built in Tinley Park. He gradually expanded his business and carried a line of men, women and children's footwear as well as rubbers, boots etc.

Mr. Schreiber was very industrious and frugal and soon owned his own property.

On Sept. 12, 1887 he was united in marriage with Miss Emilie Eichler of Tinley Park.

Mr. Schreiber made a host of friends with his genial personality and friendliness. His fellow townsmen recognized his worth as a solid citizen of the community and elected him as a member of the village board. He was also made a director of the Bremen State Bank and was elected as vice president of this institution. He was also a charter member of the Tinley Park Business Men's Association. He was also a member of the Zion Lutheran church of Tinley Park for fifty years.

He was always active in the civic affairs of his community and always worked for the best interests of his community.

In the early part of the 1930's he and Mrs. Schreiber made a trip to Germany and visited relatives and friends.

In 1933 Mrs. Schreiber passed away and he resided alone for a number of years. About two and a half years ago he went to Bloomington, Michigan to make his home with his son Louis and family.

Late last fall he sold his property in Tinley Park to Emory Fulton and Howard Mager who since then have opened a cleaning establishment in it.

Surviving are his son Louis, two grandchildren and a host of friends and other near relatives. One son Henry died a number of years ago.

Mr. Schreiber was a great lover of music and was a member of a Blue Island German singing society. He also loved flowers and his home garden used to be the floral show place of the village.

The body laid in state in the Hirsch Bros. Funeral Home in Tinley Park from Sunday until Tuesday afternoon when funeral services were held at the Lutheran church with the Rev. Albert Buddenhagen officiating. Burial was made in the Zion Cemetery.

Lillian Schultz Becomes Bride of Bernard Andres

At a candle light service held in the Tinley Park Methodist church at 3:30 o'clock Saturday, January 19, Miss Lillian Schultz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christ Schultz, Jr. of Blue Island, became the bride of Mr. Bernard Andres, son of Mrs. Caroline Andres of Tinley Park. The pastor, Rev. J. Frank Anderson officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The church was beautifully decorated with palms and white candles.

Mrs. Henry Bechstein, organist, accompanied Miss Alfreda Willman when she sang, "O Promise Me", "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

The church was beautifully decorated with palms and white candles.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white satin trimmed with flowered lace. She wore a finger tip veil and carried a bouquet of white calla lilies.

Mrs. Marcus Monson, sister of the groom, was matron of honor. She wore a gown of dusty rose satin, with matching satin hat and carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and baby breath.

The bridesmaids were: Miss Doris Evanson of Blue Island, who was gowned in aqua satin; June Miller of Tinley Park who wore beige satin; Shirley Town wearing blue satin and Velma Lorenz gowned in fuchsia satin.

All the bridesmaids wore matching satin hats and carried colonial bou-

New Lenox Real Estate Man Closes $16,000 Deal

Mr. Ed. Walsh, Realtor of New Lenox handled a $16,000 deal recently when he sold the Wm. Meyer Grocery store, Washington and Union streets, Joliet.

RUBE TART EXPECTED HOME THIS WEEK

Rube Tart of New Lenox who recently underwent a major operation in the St. James Hospital, Chicago Heights has been improving so well that he is expected to come home this week.

The groom was attended by Mr. Frederick Willman of Chicago. Robt. Hughes and Melvin Hardy of Blue Island, Helmuth Hollwedel and Oscar Olsen of Tinley Park completed the wedding party.

Judy Andres of Tinley Park, who was dressed in white satin and net with a white net bonnet, was flower girl. She carried a white basket trimmed in blue, and dropped rose petals as she preceded the bride to the altar, Roger Sperlin of Blue Island, served as ring bearer.

Following the wedding a dinner for 130 friends and relatives was held in the church parlors and later a wedding dance for 300 friends was given in Saenger Hall, Tinley Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Andres are living at the home of the groom.

Dog Veteran of World War II Lands In Mokena

"Butch" an Irish Setter and Police dog belonging to Edwin C. Shaw of Blue Island, Ill. has the distinction of being the first dog veteran of World War II to arrive in Mokena. The dog was shipped to Blue Island from Fort Robinson, Nebraska Tuesday of this week. On Wednesday Mr. Shaw's father Van Shaw of Mokena brought the dog to his home on Front St., Mokena.

Butch weighs about 104 pounds, has black back, ears and nose and sorrel colored body and flag tail.

Butch served two years overseas in the South Pacific where he was on sentry duty.

He enlisted November 23, 1942 and was discharged January 18, 1946. The Honorable Discharge certificate issued by the Quartermaster Corp reads as follows:

Quartermaster Corp, War Dog K-9 Section, U. S. Army.

Honorable Discharge

The War dog "Butch" tattoo No. 17F having served with the armed forces of the U.S.A. is hereby awarded the certificate of faithful service and honorable discharge. Serial #115. The Quartermaster General.

The following letter was sent to the dog owner, Edwin C. Shaw, 2204 W. 120th Pl., Blue Island by Robt. P. Skeen, 1st Lt. QMC Adjutant.

Dear Mr. Shaw:

Your dog Butch brand 17F is now available for return to you and is being shipped in accordance with your instructions by railway express.

Butch has been carefully checked and it is believed you will experience no difficulty with the dog becoming re-adjusted to his former home surroundings, however, the fact that your dog was trained as a war dog should always be borne in mind. You should guard against any person "Sicking" him on anyone as we have heretofore advised you the government assumes no responsibility for the dog after his departure from this center.

Enclosed you will find "Butch's" honorable discharge from the armed forces together with suggestions for handling a returned war dog. A list of obedience commands and the dog ration fed at this center. This list should be of considerable assistance to you in handling and feeding your dog on his return to his former environment.

Donation of your dog represented a patriotic service which has been greatly appreciated by your government and especially by all members of this command.

The Center referred to in the above letter is the Army service forces War Dog reception and training centers Fort Robinson, Neb.

Mr. Shaw wishes to warn the children of this community to refrain from being over friendly with Butch if he should happen to be on the loose.

ANOTHER LOCAL MAN IN "WHO'S WHO" BOOK

In listing some of the local names of professional and business men whose names appear in "Who's Who in Chicago and Illinois" we inadvertently failed to list the name of Attorney A. H. Krusemark, Jr., of Frankfort.

Hundreds of Chickens Killed In Alpine Fire

About 10 o'clock Tuesday morning a fire of unknown origin broke out in a 2 story barn which houses several thousand chickens on the Bernard Rickerman property at the intersection of 167 St. and 108 Ave. and destroyed most of the chickens as well as part of the big barn.

The combined efforts of the Orland and Mokena Community Volunteer Fire Departments helped to save the barn, as well as some of the chickens.

The extent of the loss is not known at present, but the building and the chickens were covered by insurance.

Nils Peterson of New Lenox Dies

Mr. Nils Martin Peterson, 72 years old passed away Thursday afternoon at 1:30 in Silver Cross hospital, following a lingering illness. Mr. Peterson had been in the hospital since last September, when he fell and broke his hip. He suffered a stroke Sunday.

Mr. Peterson with his wife Selma, who passed away last May, had moved to New Lenox five years ago, after retiring from the Grocery business in Chicago.

Survivors are: one daughter Mattie; Mrs. Harry Carlson of Chicago, three sons, Roth, Theodore of Chicago and Algot of New Lenox, eleven grandchildren, and one great grand child. Funeral services were held Monday at 2:30 from the Starr Funeral Chapel in Chicago. Burial was in the Mt. Greenwood cemetery there.

Palos Players to Present Play March 8

The Village Players of Palos Park and Palos Heights, had their regular monthly program meeting January 17 in the Palos Village hall.

A skit entitled, "Cynthia's Strategy" was given for the members of the amateur theatrical group. Appearing in the play were Mrs. Pat Mungovan, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Riemersma, and Russell Hamilton, all of Palos Heights.

The play was a one-act musical comedy, presenting the story of young love—a couple who want to get married face the great odds of a disapproving parent. A happy ending satisfied the audience, however.

The Village Players will present "Craig's Wife" March 8, 9 and 10 in the Village Hall. Tickets for the production will soon be available to the public.

COURT OF HONOR TO BE HELD BY BOY SCOUTS IN MOKENA TUESDAY

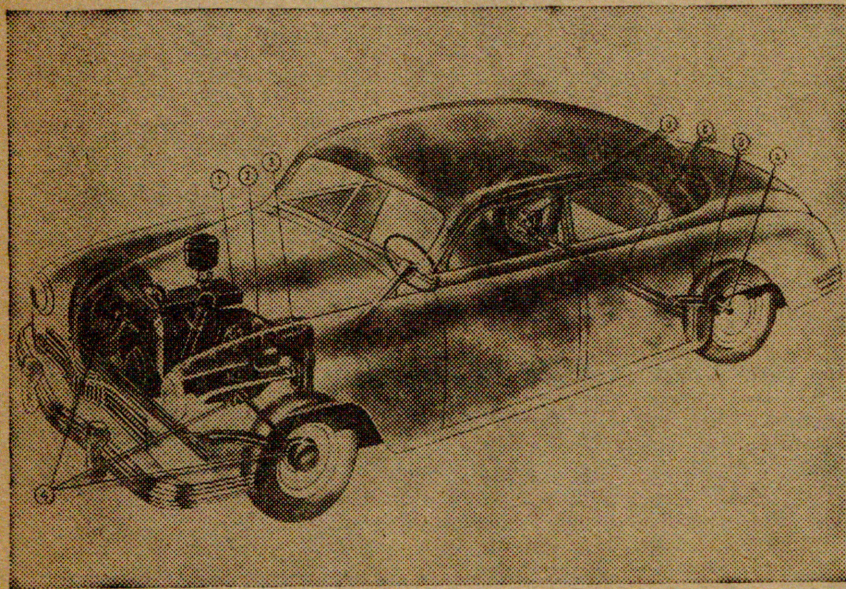

The first Court of Honor to be held in Mokena, will take place Tuesday, under the auspices of the Troop Committee of Troop No. 40, Boy Scouts of America, next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the public school.

Mr. Arthur T. Shoep will be master of ceremonies and will be assisted by other members of the committee and the scout masters. Five Scouts are candidates for advancement to second class.

Parents, friends and all boys aspiring to be scouts are invited to this meeting. Two reels of movies will be shown.

LAD HELPS TO MOW DOWN POLIO . . . Here is little Donald Anderson, five, Prineville, Ore., the spirited youngster who is inspiring victory over infantile paralysis as he keynotes the 1946 "March of Dimes" campaign. Donald stands in front of the poster, showing him during and after his battle with the dread disease. He holds a toy gun as if he would like to meet the polio enemy in mortal combat and beat it for all other kids.

HENRY J. KAISER'S NEW "PACKAGED" POWER . . . The new Kaiser car, first of American low-priced autos to have front wheel drive. It is also first mass production passenger car in America to have independent "torsionetic suspension" on all four wheels. The body and chassis form a single unit of the type known as "monocoque" construction. The new Kaiser was designed by Howard A. Darrin, with pressure-chamber ventilating system.

HERO'S BROTHER JOINS AIR FORCE . . . Carl Bong, brother of the late Richard Bong, Poplar, Wis., is pictured checking in at army recruiting office, Milwaukee, where he enlisted in air corps. Maj. S. T. Holzman, in charge of the office, is shown at right. Young Bong, 19, was sent to Fort Sheridan, to await assignment to some regular air force training camp. Like his late brother, he plans to become a star of the skies.

"LES MISERABLES" RE-ENACTED IN BUFFALO . . . This invitation on the bulletin board of Central Church of Christ in Buffalo, put there by the Rev. Harry T. Birdwell, in hopes that the thief who robbed the church of a candle from the Christmas altar.

FROM CAPT. TO SGT. . . . John Richard Schader, Yonkers, N. Y., who came up the hard way from enlisted man in army air force to captain, re-enlisted as a master sergeant. He is shown sewing on his sergeant stripes.

CURLEY RETURNS . . . For the fourth time in over 50 years of active political life, James Michael Curley is sworn in as mayor of Boston. At 71 he becomes the 40th mayor of Massachusetts city.

'CHURCHILL'S HOST . . . Frank W. Clark, Miami Beach, Fla., host to Winston Churchill, Britain's wartime prime minister, for the winter. Churchill will continue his paintings, some of which were recently published in U. S.

WOMAN SCIENTIST . . . Dr. Florence B. Seibert, University of Pennsylvania biochemist, world-renowned for her work in isolating substance used to diagnose tuberculosis, was awarded the Gimble prize for her work.

CONN TRAINS . . . Billy Conn, heavyweight contender from Pittsburgh, pedals the exercise bike as he trains for his bout with Joe Louis. His work-out is taking place at Hot Springs, Ark., where he will train until his championship bout.

UNDER THE DOME
WASHINGTON.—Busy Tom Corcoran, the ex-braintruster, has been promoting his law partner, ex-Senator D. Worth Clark of Idaho, to replace Harold Ickes when and if the latter resigns as secretary of the interior. Clark, a former die-hard isolationist, is not likely to get the job. . . . An off-the-record quote from President Truman: "A lot of people used to accuse President Roosevelt of being a liar—especially on Capitol Hill. But having been in this job for a few months myself, it's hard to know how anyone could be President of the United States without occasionally being a liar." . . . Boss of the Bronx Ed Flynn, close friend of FDR and former Democratic chairman, is in for tough political sledding. Hard-hitting Congressman James Roe, leader of Queens county, who spearheaded Mayor LaGuardia's victory, is out to replace Flynn as Democratic national committeeman from New York. . . . Ed Flynn, always more interested in the coveted field of diplomacy, plans to leave for Moscow this winter to try patching up relations between the Kremlin and the Vatican. . . . Some senators who backed Cordell Hull in ousting Sumner Welles, have now become strong Wellesian rosters since his masterful testimony before the Pearl Harbor committee. . . . The demagogue business must be picking up. . . . Gerald Winrod, race-baiting editor of "The Defender" and under indictment for sedition, has moved from a modest dwelling on North Green street to a pretentious home on Broadway street, the exclusive section of Wichita, Kans.

SOL BLOOM SLIPS
Congressman Sol Bloom of New York, who imported the "Salome dance" from Egypt to the Chicago World's fair many years ago, nearly got away with a fast one during a secret session of the house rules committee called to consider the UNRRA appropriation bill. Bloom, who is chairman of the house foreign affairs committee, attended the rules committee meeting as its guest. He was not supposed to vote. Congressman Charles Eaton of New Jersey, ranking minority member of the foreign affairs committee, also was a guest and supported UNRRA generally. However, he began to tell the rules committee of his strong conviction that a "freedom of the press" amendment should be included in the bill.

Anxious to avoid more argument over this, Bloom, though not a member of the rules committee, shouted, "I move the previous question!"

Rules Committee Chairman Adolph Sabath of Illinois banged his gavel and remarked, "The question is called."

Members of the rules committee then prepared to vote. Not so Representative Clarence Brown, Ohio Republican. Turning to Bloom, Brown asked:

"Sol, how long have you been a member of the rules committee?"

Bloom flushed, while other members of the rules committee grinned sheepishly, realizing they had been taken in.

"I just thought if I could get away with it, I would," Bloom replied. He did get a rule to put the UNRRA appropriation before the house, but not without a good deal more discussion.

CAPITAL CHAFF

G.I.s in India report the U. S. army, fearing the British may be faced with revolt, has issued rifles, bayonets, and ammunition to American G.I.s. Many American soldiers in India never had weapons in their hands during the war, but now get weapons after the war. . . . Secretary of State Byrnes has offered Ken Galbraith, former OPA executive and editor of Fortune magazine, an important job to help run peacetime Germany. . . . American members of the Anglo-American Palestine commission will begin hearings in Washington on January 10. . . . Assistant Secretary of State Jimmy Dunn is leaving for London to help complete the peace treaties for Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania and Italy. . . . Floyd B. Olson was a famous governor of Minnesota. But Congressman Havenner of California is probing charges that the U. S. ship named for him has been forced to carry a cargo of sick Japanese from Pacific islands to the Japanese mainland. Nearly all the patients had communicable diseases, and two of the 60 tuberculosis patients died during the voyage. Most controversial subject that has hit the Truman cabinet in weeks is the Moscow agreement.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Maury Maverick, who had the smaller War Plants corporation knocked out from under him while he was in the Far East, reports that General MacArthur is doing an A-1 job in Japan. . . . If the Russians want to make a hit with G.I. Joes, they could loosen up their absurd policy of not permitting Korean coal from the Russian zone to be shipped to the American zone a few miles south. As a result, ships which might be used for hauling G.I.s, now carry coal to Korea.

Man About Town:

The Big Parade: General Har Arnold in the Stork "Cub" section—lots skinnier than his familiar fotos. "Thanks for getting that war over with!" said a handshaker. . . . Maj. W. Rockefeller, who also went to war The Hard Way, is back 30 lbs. heavier. He is one of The Lifted Pinky Set's best advertisements. . . . Peggy Joyce (her bridegroom is detained on the Coast) escorted by millionaires who failed to win her be-jewelled hand. . . . Estelle Taylor inspecting a Jap war bond, which a G.I. purchased in Tokyo for one stale U. S. ciggie. . . . Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo (The Last Man Off Bataan) and his wife and 4 boys entering the Waldorf. Mrs. Romulo was a Jap captive until rescued by one of her sons. . . . D. Runyon, the Broadway Bard, and his 2nd favorite writer greeting 1946—and solemnly studying the celebrants as they are carried or thrown out.

Show Business Vignette: Eddie Cantor was in Boston supervising "Nellie Bly," a new show. Having a few hours to spare he phoned nearby Chelsea Naval Hospital and volunteered to give the boys an impromptu song-and-dance. . . . The hospital was tickled—so many of the invalids were well enough to visit their kin or friends—that the ones who stayed behind were lonely and depressed. . . . Cantor brought along Thelma Carpenter, Leonard Sues and Bea Walker. . . . After entertaining the vets they went to the mental ward. . . . There one weary soldier called to Eddie, "You're swell, Al!" . . . The star realized the ill veteran thought Cantor was Jolson. Eddie did not correct him even when the lad requested: "April Showers, Al!" . . . Cantor rendered "April Showers," Jolson's theme song, and the Jolson fan was the last to stop applauding.

Portrait of a Friend: When things don't come out right—he comes right in. . . . When none of your dreams come true—he is. . . . He never looks for your money—except when you've lost it. . . . He never gets in your way—except to clear it for you. . . . Nothing is more important to him than making you important. . . . He is in your corner when you're cornered. . . . He turns up when you get turn-downs. . . . All he wants in return for his helping hand is your handshake. . . . He never insists on seeing you—except when nobody else wants to. . . . He raps your critics when they're wrong and takes the rap for you—when they're right. . . . The only way he sponges off you is to absorb some of your troubles so you can have strength left to fight the heels. . . . When you're taking bows he bows out. . . . You can do anything you want with his friendship—except buy it. . . . Or sell it. . . . He makes you realize that having a real friend is like having an extra life. . . . All he asks of your friendship is the privilege of deserving it.

When Capt. Harold Stassen witnessed the big hit, "State of the Union," he told the authors that when politicians used to tell him how many votes they could deliver, he would invariably say: "How can you deliver the votes of a free people?" . . . The collabbers have found room for it in the show with a punchy snapper. . . . This is how it goes in the 3rd Act. . . . Spike (the newspaperman-campaign manager) tells Mary (the wife of the Republican hope): "The politicians coming to dinner tonight all can deliver the votes." . . . Mary says: "How can you deliver the votes of a free people?" . . . Spike: "Don't kid yourself, Mary. Lazy people, ignorant people and prejudiced people are not free."

Soldier from Miami: This is the third time these railroads have done this to me. . . . They sell you a ticket to New York, and without warning make you get out at Philadelphia. . . . They shove you into a hurriedly made-up coach train and if there is a seat available you get it. . . . One of these days someone will work up a lot of lawsuits regarding this nuisance—then maybe it'll stop. . . . What am I griping about. . . . I wasn't in any wreck—which the Miami-N. Y. trains seem to be going in for a lot lately. . . . Aw, the hell with it.

Czar Petrillo's medics have ordered him to slow down or risk the penalty of his serious internal disorder. . . . Norman Corwin, the radio author, is ill. . . . The persistent "Yankee" weather in Miami Beach packed the choo-choos north-bound.

Miami's boss Curry has warned visitors (swank and otherwise) that they risk being collared in the raids on gaming spots. That's going to scare them into laughing spasms, dear boy. . . . A resolution is being drawn by the Newspaper Guild "barring" Fiorello from colymung unless he apologizes for past insults to newsmen. That'll be the day! . . . The new Super-Chief Diesel, now being made will do 150 miles per hour. . . . Ezra Pound, who preached for Mussolini, has been sent to the booby hatch.

AN INNER SANCTUM MYSTERY
STARRING ARAB AND ANDY BLAKE

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lt. Andy Blake and his wife, Arab, discovered evidence of a spy ring headed by a Mr. Jones. Followed to Andy's house by Jones' gang, Arab was taken prisoner, but Andy, who they believed dead, was left behind. Andy reported to the army and then set out for a service station operated by the gang. He took the operator prisoner and called intelligence. Before help could arrive, two members of the gang drove up and took Andy with them. When they got to the seashore, Andy offered to run the boat to the island hangout. Before they got to the island, Andy managed to upset the boat and to swim to the island. Both men, unable to swim, were drowned.

CHAPTER XV

Or I could go down to the boat-house. The garage was probably there, but I didn't know how to start a marine engine—or any other, for that matter. It's all I can do to start an electric razor. If I had an arsenal I couldn't handle it. Except maybe a seventy-five. Perhaps I could remember enough of my Field Artillery to fire that. Yes, sir, if I could only find a seventy-five nobody was using and emplace it right here and let them have it over open sights, everything would be jake.

I got up disgustedly. The dumbest dogface from a replacement training center would be better equipped for the job than I. He would have got at it sooner, too. He would pick up a hunk of driftwood and walk into the house and start batting people over the head. It wasn't a bad idea.

I slipped down the dune and crept toward the house, keeping in the shadow of the pilings. My toes buckled against a nice hunk of driftwood. It was baseball-bat size and had some nasty-looking nails at one end. I took it along. The concrete building loomed up over my head. I scrambled across the pilings and examined the place. The locked door was faced with sheet iron and it had no windows. Up near the roof, however, perhaps twelve feet from sand level, were slots in the concrete: two on each side of the building. The place looked like an heirloom dating back to Prohibition. You could store a lot of Scotch inside, and if you had a rifle you could make hijackers think bathtub gin was healthier.

When I pressed my ear against the door I picked up a faint hum and a ticklish vibration. Five would get you ten it was a dynamo; the place had to provide its own power. I bruised my shoulder against the door, but it wouldn't budge. Now I would never find out whether or not you needed a B.S. in Electrical Engineering to wreck a dynamo.

I took a few practice strokes with the hunk of driftwood. The follow-through wasn't perfect, but that didn't matter. It wasn't a case of trying to break eighty. Just heads. I crept around a corner of the house and spotted a man sitting on the back steps. He wasn't looking toward me.

I walked up quietly. He wasn't anybody I knew, so I turned the rusty nails away before letting him have it on the back of the head. He dove into the sand face first. I dragged him into the shadow of the steps. He seemed to be alive but he would need more than aspirin before he would want to take an interest in things. I switched a Luger from his pocket to mine, hoping that it wouldn't start shooting holes in my leg, and then padded into the house.

I inched along the wall and found a door. It wasn't going to be fun to take a room-by-room census, but it had to be done. The knob turned easily. I slipped inside, waited. Somebody was breathing. Once before I had waited in a dark room while the fat man breathed near by. The memory of it made the back of my neck prickle. I couldn't tell whether or not the breathing sounds were like those the fat man had made. I reached forward, touched a bed. I lifted the hunk of driftwood, stretched out my hand farther . . . farther . . .

A chill skated up my arm. My fingers touched a slender body. It was half naked and it tried to move away from my fingers. A girl's voice said wearily, "Please don't, please don't, please don't, please . . ." The sound droned on as if a worn needle had stuck on a very old phonograph record.

My throat felt sandy. "Arab?" I whispered. "Arab?"

"They haven't brought her back yet, they haven't brought her back yet, they—"

I shook the slim bare shoulders. "Stop it. I'm not going to hurt you. I want to help. But you'll have to tell me a few things first."

"We've been all over it before," she said fretfully. "I didn't see anything from my window except some people in that house giving each other a Nazi salute and Joey and Mrs. Fielding were there and I don't know anything more and I've told you and told you I'd forget it if you let me go."

"Paula."

"Yes?"

"You are Paula Thompson, aren't you? You lived in Mrs. Fielding's house? On the second floor?"

"You know that, you're just trying to drive me crazy," she sobbed. "And I get scared talking this way in the dark. You're going to hurt me again."

"Paula, I'm your friend. I'm Arab's husband. I'm going to get you out of—"

She began crying quietly and repeating, "It's just another trick, it's just another trick . . ."

I ran my fingers down her arm and located a strap at her wrist. Below it her fingers were cold. The strap held her wrist to the bed frame. I found the buckle, unfastened it, and reached across to free her other arm. A sharp intake of breath cut off her sobbing. I couldn't see her but I knew she was lying there rigidly, eyes dilated, trying to understand. A small icy hand touched my undershirt, crept up over my chin and face and hair.

"I . . . don't . . . know . . . you," she whispered. For the first time there was hope in her voice.

"Of course you don't. Now you've got to answer some questions for me, and then you're leaving."

"You won't turn on the light, will you?" she gasped. "A minute ago I was afraid of the dark . . . but now I . . . I . . ."

There was a blanket at the foot of the bed. I yanked it loose and tossed it around her. "Everything's clear on the first floor," I said. "Go quietly downstairs and out the back. Don't worry about the man beside the steps. He won't bother you. Can you swim a long way? Or start a motorboat?"

"No."

"Well, then, run down to the inlet. Dig a hole in the sand and I turned the rusty nails away before letting him have it.

wrap yourself in the blanket and crawl in and sprinkle sand all over yourself. Don't move unless you see a Coast Guard cutter in the inlet. Know what a cutter looks like?"

"Oh, yes. Once they made me stand behind the curtains and they pointed out a cutter to me and laughed and then they—"

She was getting choked up again, and I broke in, "If you see a cutter near enough, scream like hell. If it gets daylight, make sure you're well covered. And don't worry about what may happen here. All I want you to do is get away safely. Got it?"

"What about you?"

"I'll make out. How many people are here right now?"

"Joey and Mr. Jones, and . . . and Bill . . ."

Something stirred in my memory. "Bill who? McAdams?"

"Yes."

"The guy you were supposed to have eloped with?"

"Yes. But I didn't, really I didn't! Why, I didn't love him at all! I thought we were just having friendly dates and I phoned him about the Nazi meeting and . . . and he was terrible and—"

"He made you call up the next morning and tell the girls you had eloped, didn't he?"

"Yes, and all the time I was right in that house next door where the fat man lived. They stood around me and made me call. Then the next day they brought me here. They were going to make me write letters if anybody got suspicious of what had become of me. It was awful! And they—"

"Take it easy. Bill McAdams is the one I clubbed as I came in. Who else is here?"

"That's all the men. And Mrs. Fielding and a slender girl with shoulder-length blonde hair. They call her Arab. Did you say she's your wife?"

"Yes. Have they . . . well . . . is she—"

"No," she said quickly, "no, they haven't. I think they've just been talking to her so far."

"Where are they?"

"There's a big sort of map room two doors down the hall. They might be in it. Or upstairs."

"O. K." I went to the door and opened it. Whispers still crept along the walls. "Get going, Paula. And good luck."

The blanket rustled and a hand touched my arm and the stairs began mewling under her feet. There was no change in the whispers. I waited a few minutes until I was sure that she was out of the house. I slipped down the hall, counting doors. One . . . two . . . I eased it open a crack, and looked in. A hooded desk lamp was lighted, but no one was in the room.

This was it. This was the fat man's Berchtesgaden. This was where he sat like a plump white toadstool brewing poison. I knew I ought to get on with the job of battling people over the head, but the room was too fascinating to leave. I wanted a closer look at the filing cases and huge maps and the short-wave transmitter studded with gleaming knobs and dials. I walked in and closed the door.

Somewhere in the big sweating country behind me people had been talking. Talking proudly of "my son" and "my war work." Some of the words had echoed from one person to another until they became whispers scurrying through this gray house. A fat man had moved slowly to a filing cabinet and pulled out fat envelopes marked with divisional insignia. He had studied what the contents of the envelopes told him of the state of training, strength and location of the divisions.

Then he had moved little flags on a wall map: to a maneuver area, to a staging area, to an overseas base. Or he had pulled out an envelope marked B-17 and had added the fact that they had started to come off the line with twin stingers in the tail.

There were plenty of gaps in his collection. I checked a subject on which I had some inside information, and found that he was far behind the parade. That wasn't much comfort. Even when he only had one extra fact, it was one too many.

It seemed like a good idea to mess up his collection as much as possible, just in case anything went wrong with my plans. I let the files alone. It would take hours to open every cabinet and destroy the contents. The pins on the map were another matter. He might not have a small scale duplicate, and it would take days of studying the filed material to replace the pins properly. I swept my hand over the big map. The pins bent like tiny bows, leaped free. With them fluttered small paper bags lettered with the numerals of divisions and airplane squadrons.

The maps were clean. Too clean. I couldn't resist a temptation. I picked up the Fifth Air Force and First Armored and the Eighty-second Air-borne and a couple of hot infantry divisions, and landed a task force in Berlin.

In a glass case in a corner were four rifles, a shot-gun, a Tommy gun, several revolvers, and even a hand grenade. I let them alone. My Table of Basic Allowances called for one club, and I was already over-equipped with a Luger I would never be able to handle.

The gleaming panel of the short-wave transmitter deserved some attention, though. I looked behind the panel and selected the biggest tube I could find: one which bulged with cathode and grid and anode. I decided against breaking it because it might explode too loudly. Instead of that, I dropped it in the wastebasket and covered it with papers. It was only a start, anyway. By the time I finished with the short-wave set, the only way it would ever reach Deutschlandsender would be by parcel post. I stretched out a hand toward the wiring . . . then got an idea which wiped the radio from my thoughts. I raised the blackout curtain of one seaward window.

I swung the lamp around on the desk so that its light glared directly out to sea. There's one code signal everybody knows. I blinked it on the desk lamp. Dot-dot-dot-dash. Dot—

A voice jeered, "That's illegal, Jack. Wanna get us fined?"

I swung around, clawing for the Luger. I might just as well have tried to coax a live crab from my pants pocket. Joey Raeder and the fat man stood in the doorway, watching with polite interest. A couple of automatics were looking my way, too. I froze.

I glanced at the hunk of driftwood, three feet away on a table. If it had been in my hand I could have thrown it. I said, "That sporting instinct of yours will get you booted out of the Herrenvolk."

Joey said, "The guy asked for it, Chief, so—"

"Wait," the fat man said.

"But, Chief—"

"Lower the window shade, Joey. And you"—the blind glasses glared at me—"bring your right hand out of your pocket slowly and clasp both hands behind your head."

I obeyed. There wasn't anything to be gained by seeing if I could jump ten feet in less time than a trigger finger could move a quarter inch. Joey detoured around me and pulled down the shade. Then he came up behind me and carefully worked the gun out of my pocket.

New G.I. Bill of Rights

Principal provisions of the new amendments to the G.I. Bill of Rights which became law over the Christmas holidays include:

1. Increase in the amount of guaranteed loans for purchase of a home, a farm, or for entering business, from $2,000 to $4,000;
2. Elimination of the provision that all benefits of the G.I. Bill are to be deducted from any future bonus for veterans;
3. Increase of subsistence allowance for single men going to school or taking on-the-job training from $50 to $65 a month, and for married men from $75 to $90 per month;
4. Extends time an educational course may be initiated from two to four years after end of the war and also extends the time for completing a course from seven to nine years;
5. Removes all age limitations;
6. Permits taking of short courses up to $500 with a proportionate reduction in the veteran's period of eligibility;
7. Permits veterans to take correspondence courses at government expense;
8. Permits approval of a loan by accredited lending institution and permits purchase of stock for small businesses.

Under Public Law 16, which provides for education for disabled veterans, disability pension payments are increased from a minimum of $92 to $105 a month for single men and from $105 to $115 for married men, plus $10 per month for one child and $7 for each additional child, and $15 for any dependent parent.

Questions and Answers

Q. I am an honorably discharged veteran who spent three years and three months in the army and was wounded in action. I found a good farm for sale and borrowed the money from our local bank on the basis that I could repay it with the $2,000 to which I am entitled under the G.I. bill. How can I go about getting this loan started through? I have been to see the representative of the farm security and he keeps putting me off and tells me to come back in 60 days.—G. W. S., Statesville, N. C.

A. You probably should have completed your G.I. loan before you bought the farm, but the first thing to do is to make application to your nearest veterans' administration regional office and they will issue a certificate of eligibility. Then complete the deal through your local bank. Under the new amendments you can borrow up to $4,000 instead of $2,000.

Q. My husband has been in the service 22 months and he is over-seas about 14 months and we have five children and he is needed at home. I need him this winter. Will he be discharged?—Mrs. E. B. B., Norris, S. D.

A. Your husband is certainly eligible to apply for a discharge, if he wants it, because all men in service are eligible for discharge if they have three or more children.

Q. Why have young men in the army air corps been discharged with less than a year of service when other men, 18 or 19 years old with two years or more, haven't enough points?—R. Z., Canton, Ohio.

A. The war department says they have no need for more flyers so in many instances cadets are being released. Under army regulations men may be discharged if they are of no further use or if there is no place for them, whether they have sufficient points or not.

Q. I am a veteran of World War I and drawing a pension. Am I entitled to government dental treatment regardless of whether the dental condition is due to service connection. Does this alter the case any?—E. L. B., Tamarack, Minn.

A. The Veterans' administration says you are not entitled to dental treatment unless it is service connected or unless such treatment is required for service connected disability.

Q. My son went to Japan with 47 points. Will he receive any more points or is that the final count?—A mother, Martin, S. D.

A. He will continue to earn points so long as he is in the service.

Q. My husband works nights every other week and would like to take a high school course but cannot because of his present job. Under the G.I. Bill of Rights, would it be possible to take a correspondence course and would the government pay the tuition on such a course?—Mrs. R. V. B., St. Paul, Minn.

A. Yes, under the new amendment to the G.I. bill your husband could take a correspondence course and the government would pay tuition up to $500 but he would receive no subsistence allowance.

A PEOPLE AT WORSHIP

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 28:1; 35:4-9, 20-23

GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve.—Matthew 4:10.

A nation which knows God must have a place and a plan for worshipping Him. The history of Israel has moved forward in the account in Exodus where the people delivered from bondage are established as a theocratic nation; that is, one governed by God.

The covenant at Sinai (ch. 19) was followed by the giving of the law (chs. 20-23), and then in chapters 24-40 we find the worship of God established. Two elements are necessary—a way in which God may be approached and a place to meet Him. The former is provided in the ordaining of the Aaronic priesthood, and the latter by the building of the Tabernacle.

I. God Provides a Way to Worship (28:1).

The appointment of Aaron as high priest, and his sons to serve with him, provided for the proper conduct of the worship of God which was to take place in the Tabernacle.

The sinner coming into the presence of God must approach by way of the brazen altar where sacrifice could be made for sin. This called for a priest set apart for this holy duty, which would open the way for the repentant one to enter into the Holy place, and ultimately to know that his sin was covered in the Holy of Holies.

Consider the grace of God in thus providing for the deep spiritual need of His people. All of this pointed forward to the day when Christ the true High Priest was to make the perfect and final atonement for sin by the sacrifice of Himself on Calvary's tree.

The symbolic dress of the priest and his consecration for his duties are all very instructive, but we do not have space to comment at length. Suffice it to say that the one who is to serve in the conduct of the worship of God is to be a called, cleansed and consecrated man, set apart for a holy calling and eager to be used of God to lead men into fellowship with Him.

From these first provisions for the worship of God we thus may learn many of the high principles which are to guide the church regarding the call and separation of men to the ministry. The gift and grace of God shown in the man's character are far more important than intellectual or social standing.

II. God Provides a Place of Worship (35:4-9, 20-23).

The plan for the Tabernacle was given by God to Moses in much detail. A close study of it will bring rich reward.

Although the plans were made by God (Exod. 25-27), note that He gave to the people the privilege of providing the materials. They recognized it as a high privilege and not a burden, and they came enthusiastically with their gifts.

That thought bears application to the believer, for we know that God still loves a cheerful giver (II Cor. 9:7). Those who groan and grumble about the money and material needed for the worship of God have not caught the real spirit of Christian giving.

The children of Israel brought more than enough of their most treasured possessions and of the labor of their hands; in fact, they had to be told to stop (Exod. 36:1-7). Imagine having to tell people to stop giving! That would be a novelty!

The Tabernacle was duly built, and thus there was provided for Israel a place of meeting (Tabernacle literally means "tent of meeting"), beautiful and appropriate for their days of sojourning in the wilderness. The significance of the Tabernacle is both interesting and important.

(1) It is a symbol of God's presence with His people. All who were defiled were excluded because God was there.

(2) It is a type of God's method of bringing sinners to Himself. There must be a sacrifice for sin before communion can be established.

The furniture of the Tabernacle is therefore significant. The altar of sacrifice and the laver of cleansing come first in the outer court. Then on his journey from the sacrifice to the communion of the Holy of Holies, the one who seeks God is fed by the showbread, lighted by the candlestick and sustained by prayer, of which the altar of incense speaks.

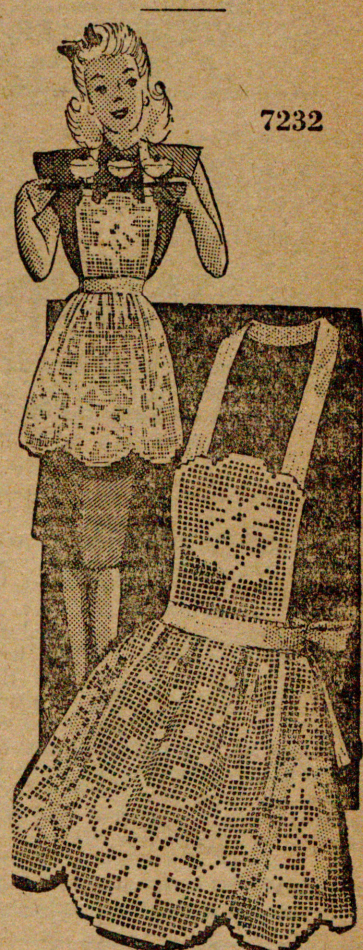

Christ is the Bread of life, the Light of the world, our High Priest and interceding Advocate. Within the Holy of Holies the mercy seat typifies the covering of a believer's sins by the blood of Christ.

(3) It is a symbol of the incarnation of Christ of whom it is said that He "tabernacled" with men.

(4) It is a symbol of heavenly things. Christ now appears in heaven for us as our minister and high priest (Heb. 8:1-5).

(5) It is a symbol of God's dwelling with men in the ages of eternity (Rev. 21).

Kidneys Must Work Well—

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging back-ache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at night, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

IN MEMORIAM

ROGERS, LULU—In loving memory of our beloved sister and aunt who passed away Jan. 23, 1944. Two years have passed Since that sad day, When we loved Was called away; God took her home, It was His will, But in our hearts, She liveth still.

THE FULTON FAMILY

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to sincerely thank relatives and friends for the kind expressions of sympathy shown us in our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved father and grandfather, Geo. Schreiber. We also thank Rev. Albert Budenhagen for his comforting words; the singers and all who sent floral offerings and those who donated the use of their automobiles.

LOUIS SCHREIBER FAMILY AND GRANDCHILDREN.

Miss Joan Bochstahler celebrated her birthday last Sunday.

The RNA met Tuesday night at their regular meeting. The following officers were installed:

Oracle, M. Miller, Vice Oracle, J. Smith, Chancellor, M. Rice, Recorder, E. Wannemacher, Receiver, G. Jacobs, Marshall, R. Freitag, Assistant Marshall, T. Bochstahler.

Managers, L. Moss, G. Rader, Wolte, Faith, Mrs. Swanson, Courage, E. Arnold, Modesty, F. Ceithaml, Unselfishness, A. Dull, Endurance, Dodd, Musician, B. Mancke, Flag Bearer, L. Brown, Degree Staff, D. Hansen, Juvenile director, Wolte.

Mrs. Miller is now serving her third term as Oracle of this camp.

The assistant Ceremonial Marshall was T. Bochstahler, Pianist L. Andres, Chancellor, H. Chapman, soloist D. Hansen.

The installing officers were Louise Brown, ceremonial marshal, R. Hires. Guests were Supervisor C. Krieger and Mrs. Nelson of Garfield camp. Gifts were exchanged and refreshments served.

Mrs. Clarence Brown is ill in her home.

Mrs. Frances Kedrow is ill in St. Francis hospital in Blue Island.

Mrs. C. Goessel entertained the Tinley Park luncheon club in the home of Mrs. Roberts Monday.

Mrs. Anna Clemens who has been ill in her home for several weeks, is about the same.

The "Old Gang" who gathered at the Walter Smith home of Orland Park on Sunday evening knew it was a red letter day, and our hostess was celebrating her 77th birthday, as Mrs. Walter Feiling walked in with a huge bouquet of White Chrysanthemums and said "Happy Birthday Mary."

Every one was dying with curiosity as to how many summers this fair lady had seen but all were "too genteel" to ask that vital question. Who knows?

The game started promptly and the scores ran high with an occasional tumble and set down.

Mrs. Ann Flicker, who seemed to own a certain chair and table must have a rabbit foot tucked under her belt, ran off with first prize for the ladies.

Her husband John who felt he could not be out done by his wife carried first for the men. Mrs. Walter Feiling working and wishing with luck and wisdom carried off the apron as second prize likewise Mr. Snyder who had been brushing up all week got the tooth powder for "next month's brushing up."

Mrs. Koehler and Mr. Feiling were awarded the "Boos" and had their hearts consoled by the least and last.

A sumptuous supper was served at midnight. Dick Wille proved he was an able waiter while Stuckey was altogether too anxious to give birthday gifts representing "all of the men."

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Feiling on Oak Lawn on Feb. 17 with a Valentine party.

At this time a "Step up, Pep up" program will be discussed.

Mr. C. A. Noehring and wife and Mr. L. W. Noehring and wife, brothers of Mrs. John Swisher, were guests in the Swisher home Sunday at a family gathering. The Noehrings are from Chicago.

Mr. Stanley Mager of St. Louis, Mo., spent the weekend at the home of his parents. He was enroute to St. Louis after a business trip to Boston, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Smith received a telegram Tuesday night from their son Carl A. Smith from Utah, saying he was on his way home and expected to arrive by the end of the week. He has been stationed at San Francisco Bay, with the Navy since November and has spent 34 months overseas.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Smith and baby of Lansing, Mich. are moving to Tinley Park and will make their home with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Smith.

Tonight at 8 pm. in the home of Mrs. Brown Campbell, the Executive board of the PTA will meet. Next Friday, at 2 pm. in the school gym, we will hold our Founder's Day meeting. There will be a very interesting program, so we would like as many members who can to attend.

—Frances Webster, Publicity chair.

The Bremen Unit of Home Bureau held its monthly meeting in the Village hall, January 21, with Mrs. E. C. Grunst presiding.

After the business part of the meeting, Mrs. Marie Cornelius, our home adviser presented the major project Care of Rayons. This lesson was particularly interesting inasmuch as samples of various types of rayons were exhibited for our inspection, which will enable us to care for our rayons without any guess work. The minor project Study of Hawaii was presented by Mrs. Johnson and was exceedingly interesting. It was one of the chief points of interest of World War II. This project will be continued at the next meeting. A special meeting will be held on Feb. 15th.

Mrs. Upham our assistant Home Adviser will be at the Village hall at 9:30 am. to give a glove lesson. Any member interested in this project please call Tinley Park 398 and place an order for leather immediately. Mrs. Cornelius advised the annual meeting will be held February 28th in the Wedgewood room of Marshall Fields. Luncheon will be served. Order your reservation not later than the next meeting. We are happy to welcome into our unit Mrs. Ed. Hartwig.

—Mrs. F. E. Jeffords, Pub. chr.

Melvin John Rensink, aviation metallsmith first class, 24, of Tinley Park received his discharge January 20 at Great Lakes. He has been in service 44 months and has been stationed at John Rodgers Field, Oahu, T. H. since last July with Squadron 12 of the Naval Air Transport Service.

Dorothy Buzzard, 7112 W. 173rd St., Tinley Park, a member of the production staff will help make theatrical history at the University of Illinois when for the first time in over 300 years, Shakespeare's King Lear will be performed on a staging approximating that for which the play was written. The famous drama will be presented in Lincoln Hall theater on the campus, January 18, 19, 25 and 26.

Louis A. Gini, SC3c of Tinley Park, was discharged from the naval service Jan. 18 at Great Lakes.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Wille, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stuckey; Mr. and Mrs. John Tickar and Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Snyder all of Tinley Park and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Koehler of Blue Island were guests Sunday evening of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smith in their home in Orland.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Martie entertained in their home Tuesday evening in honor of their son Richard and his 18th birthday. Guests were his former school mates at Orland high school and other friends. They were glad to have a classmate, Walter Hentsch of Mokena with them, who had just returned Monday from two years in the south Pacific.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Mancke spent Sunday in the home of their son Pete in Mokena.

Orland Dealer Gives Suggestions on Caring For Farm Machinery

It will take several years for farmers to obtain all of the new machinery needed for replacement and expansion, states Mr. Walter Martin, Ferguson System dealer in Orland Park, in sounding a warning on winter care of the tractor and implements with a view toward longer wear.

He pointed out that all manufacturers are rushing tractors and various types of equipment to dealers everywhere as production increases, but that the serviceability of machinery now in use can be maintained by the following helpful suggestions:

Give the engine a chance to warm up before racing the car in cold weather. Keep the battery clean, the terminals greased, the cells filled with clean distilled water. The charge in the battery should be maintained by running the engine of taking it to a service station for re-charging when the tractor is not in use for some time. Never store the battery on a concrete floor or in a damp place.

Mr. Martin suggests that a hot engine be allowed to cool gradually before filling with cold water. In freezing weather, let the engine cool off a bit before draining the water.

Slow starting in cold weather may be caused by too heavy crankcase oil, frozen water pump, water in the fuel system, moisture in the distributor, or dirty spark plugs.

The following steps are advised for tractor storage: store tractor in shed or some other sheltered place; drain entire fuel system and cooling system; remove the battery for proper storage, and relieve the tires by elevating the tractor on blocks.

A coat of paint not only improves the looks and serviceability of the tractor, Mr. Martin states, but the machine will work better and last longer.

Free College Education Now Offered by Army

A representative of the U. S. Army Recruiting service will be on duty at the Post Office in Tinley Park on Tuesday, January 29th to interview prospective applicants for the army, which desires the services of young men in the regular army and as a token of appreciation is offering the opportunity for a college education free of charge, plus money to defray personal expenses while attending the university of their choice. Enlistments are now open to qualified men for periods of eighteen months, two years and three years.

The high school graduate who enlists may start his college education upon entering the army by studying with the United States Armed Forces Institute. If he prefers, he may learn any of the 200 skills or trades the army is offering. For those who are interested and can qualify, the army is also offering acceptance for the United States academy at West Point after one year of service.

Upon enlisting in the army for 18 months, the soldier is entitled to 30 months of free education in any accredited college in the country; for two years service he will receive 36 months of college, while for a full 3 year enlistment he will be entitled to 48 months of college education.

Provisions have been made for qualified men who wish to enlist now but are still in attendance at school. The Enlisted Reserve Corps will accept membership of applicants for the army who are now completing school, and are between the ages of 17 and 18.

Upon being accepted and duly sworn in, they remain in a civilian status until they reach the age of 18, so that they may complete their high school education. At that time they are called to active duty and go into uniform for the first time. Application for the Enlisted Reserve Corps may be made at any recruiting office.

In addition to all the educational benefits, the soldier is eligible for all the benefits under the GI Bill of Rights.

The local army sub-recruiting station is located at 1602 Otto blvd., Chicago Heights, Phone Chicago Heights 3138.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Caroline Schiek who passed away twelve years ago. They say there's a star up in heaven For every soul that has left this earth. That the measure its brightness is given

Is the measure of that soul's worth. So when stars on this night are gleaming We know Mother Dear just what we will do;

We will look where the brightest one is beaming And say in our hearts—It is You.

HER CHILDREN

Mrs. Francis O'Brien and her sister, Mrs. Ben Young entertained in the O'Brien home last Saturday afternoon at a surprise miscellaneous shower in honor of their niece, Miss Evelyn Schult, and her approaching marriage to Mr. Earl Moss. Games were played and prizes awarded. A lovely luncheon was served. Miss Schult received lovely gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Semmler and family entertained in their home Sunday at a family dinner in honor of their nephew Mr. Horace A. Campbell of Seattle, Washington who spent the day with them. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Schroeder and daughter in Frankfort.

Keith Rabinov, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Rabinov, entertained twenty classmates of the Joliet Township high school last Wednesday. Ice skating was enjoyed on Hickory creek and later a five o'clock dinner was served in the Rabinov home. Later dancing was enjoyed and sitting around the fire place. Richard Needham of Mokena was one of the guests.

The Evening Pinocle club met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Rinke last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schmuhl of Joliet spent Sunday in the Harold Spiess home.

Mr. Wm. Schmuhl is spending this week with his son, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schmuhl in New Lenox.

Mrs. Elmer Cooper is ill in her home with the flu.

Mission Study Class Meets

A Mokena Community Mission study class met for the first time in St. John Evangelical church Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock to study the people of Africa and opportunities for Christian Missions on that continent. The guides for study are two books, "The Cross Over Africa" and "A Daughter of Africa". These books are being used inter-denominationally by classes in the United States and Canada. Mrs. Wm. Riemann led the meeting Monday.

The meeting next Monday will be held in the Methodist church with Mrs. Berle Needham as leader. All women of the Mokena community are invited to join this study group.

The Women's Guild of St. John's church has completed and sent 36 new garments for European relief. Earlier this winter five large cartons of used clothing were sent to the United Church Service Center, New Windsor, Md., where garments are sorted, baled and shipped to all parts of Europe thru the agencies of the World Council of Churches. The following women met in the church parlors Tuesday and sewed wool skirts for this purpose: Mesdames, Bass, Riemann, Mall, Albert Braun, Mattes, Ed. Martie, Edwin Yunker, Peter Mancke, Aug. Hauck, Bisgrove, Sarah Spiess, Lawrence Kohl, Helen Scherer, Floyd Williams, Louis Lauffer and R. Thiel.

Harold Spiess is recovering from a painful infection in his finger.

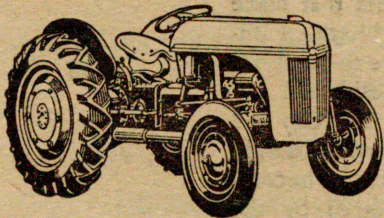

WOMEN'S SERVICE NEWS

Mrs. Berle Needham Melvin Nordell who was recently discharged from service is now a student at Joliet Township high school.

Earl Schoeneck was recently discharged and has returned to Mokena. Walter Hentsch has received his discharge and is now in Mokena.

Dear Ladies:

Received your Christmas card and money order of five dollars, a little late but very welcome. I remember the last money order I received from you went through a lot of rough treatment before I did finally cash it. This one is going to be sent right back to the states for use when I get home. The reason for that is there no place over here to spend money. Besides I just got paid the last of December.

I want to thank you very much for the card and money, even though I can not use it yet.

Thanking you again, I remain,
Bob Homerding

A month ago T. S. Walter Hentsch wrote to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hentsch, saying he expected to be home about Jan. 20th. His parents and brother were very happy when he called them last Thursday from Los Angeles stating he was in the States. He arrived at Camp Grant from where he received his honorable discharge Monday morning and arrived at his home in Mokena that afternoon. He had served nearly three years in the army two years of which were spent in the south Pacific. Because he was expected home, the family did not take down their Christmas tree, so Monday night another Christmas was celebrated after Walter arrived home.

Guests for dinner that night were: Mr. and Mrs. August Werner, Mr. and Mrs. August Long, Mrs. Harold Baker and Mr. Geo. Wannemacher. It had been three years since Walter and his brother George had met, the later also being discharged from service.

The Bankers reached peak form for the season as they swept three games from the Robins. By winning three they tied the Smokers for the lead as the slumping Smokers dropped two to the V-Eligters.

The Bankers rolled a 243 team series which is high for this season and Walby Meek's 607 series carried him into the individual lead over Haehnlein.

The Paperhangers continued on a fast clip as they won two games from the Oilers.

Looks like the Bankers are favorites to win the title as the Smokers, Robins, are rolling in a slump. The Oilers and V-Eligters are eight games out so need a terrific winning spurt to overtake them. The Paperhangers, if they were closer to the lead could overtake the Bankers as the Paperhangers have been moving at a fast clip during the last few weeks. Looks like the battle for the individual lead rests between Meek and Haehnlein.

THE COLLECTIVIST STATE

There are those in this country who sincerely believe that the welfare of human beings can best be served thru collectivist control.

Benito Mussolini believed it. He succeeded in persuading the Italian people that his belief was valid. The fruition brought neither contentment nor security.

Adolph Hitler believed it. Sixty million Germans accepted his philosophy. Today that which was the Reich is one vast panorama of desolation.

This belief is the cardinal tenet of the code of the Japanese Emperor. Tokyo, Yokohama and Osaka have been leveled by flame.

We are a trusting people. In some respects we are gullible folk. It is essential in these times that we be ruthlessly realistic.

Communism, Fascism, Nazism are not mere matters of terms or definitions. They result from the establishment of centralized controls and the operation of mechanisms of administration. Unfortunately, in the development of these mechanisms the insidious step by step procedure may postpone recognition of their real significance.

There have been introduced in the United States Congress, Amendments to the Social Security Act. They are known as the Wagner Murray Dingell bills. Most Americans favor the expressed objectives of some of the proposals. However, almost hidden in the careful verbiage of the Amendments is the cold steel move to place in the hands of appointees of the Federal Government sole and exclusive responsibility for the distribution of health care for one hundred ten million people. This service would consist of general medical, special medical, general dentist, special dentist, laboratory care, hospitalization and home nursing care. In no country has machinery been established more sweeping in its provisions to serve the purpose of a Collectivist State.

In the beginning the tax provisions would create a central fund of more than Eight Billion Dollars annually. It is not anticipated that this amount would even approximate the total cost. It is to be supplemented from "General Revenue." It has been pointed out that our national debt is approaching three hundred billion dollars; that our economy could not sustain this additional drain of from ten to fifteen billion dollars each year.

The key principle of our Freedom of Enterprise System is more jobs for more men at maximum wages to provide ever greater markets for the products of a constantly expanding industry. Attention is drawn to the fact that the Wagner Murray Dingell proposals are a direct tax on employment. There would be a minimum of eight billion dollars yearly less for consumers to spend for the potential output of our mines and factories and farms. This, of necessity, would create a downward spiral of production and fewer and fewer jobs for workmen. These results, within limits, would be inevitable. They might be disastrous but they are not the really important consideration.

The unparalleled progress and incomparable achievements of the American people are the result of self-respect, individual initiative and self-reliance. When formalized Security is substituted for self-reliance we forfeit the essence of the factor that has been our strength. When the incentive for individual effort and thrift is removed progress, as we have known it, will be shifted into reverse.

It may be possible that a truly wise and honest administration can reasonably ration the food supply of the nation. Save under truly totalitarian concept and control is it within reason to expect the effective rationing of physician and hospital services for one hundred ten million people. A vital difference should be kept in mind. If the food rationing fails, it may mean only that there are no steaks or pork chops on dining room tables. If the doctor rationing fails, men and women and children die. Human lives are the issue.

The Wagner Murray Dingell Health services proposals should be recognized for what they are. They are in reality State Medicine. They are instrumentalities and mechanisms of the Collectivist State. If we are to preserve our Freedom of Enterprise System we dare not enact these proposals into law. If the American people understand the facts and the implications, almost unanimously they will stand solidly in opposition.

In their final action on these Amendments, elected Representatives will be influenced by what they believe to be the desires of their constituents. Write to your Congressmen and Senators at Washington D. C., and tell them you do not favor the passage of this bill.

Chicago and Northern Illinois— the Center of Your Market

Chicago's Merchandise Mart—the world's largest building under one roof

Here Is the Place—26,000,000 people live within an overnight freight haul of Chicago. Industries locating in the Chicago area enjoy many resulting economies: quicker deliveries incoming and outgoing; lower transportation costs; easy access to customers and suppliers; a constant flow of out-of-town buyers. One building alone—the Merchandise Mart—attracts 400,000 buying visits a year. And the Furniture Mart, for instance, another great central market building, is the acknowledged center of its industry. It is no wonder that Chicago is nationally known as the "Great Central Market."

Industrial Facilities Are Diversified—At the heart of this central buying and selling network, the Chicago and Northern Illinois territory forms a nucleus that is in itself a huge market and a huge source of supply. There are 5 million people in this territory, with an income that last year reached a rate of 7½ billion dollars annually. There are 10,000 manufacturing plants that make everything from abrasive wheels to X-ray equipment. Eighty-six per cent of all types of U. S. industry are represented here. Chicago has properly been called a "department store of industry"—a plus factor for industries which purchase some portion of their production from other plants.

Community Services Are Broad

—Living and working conditions in the many communities that make up the Chicago and Northern Illinois area are attractive to employer and worker alike. Residential districts are carefully zoned. City and regional planning is well advanced and realistically conceived. The community services rendered by the police, fire, health and sanitation departments, by the schools, hospitals and churches, by the universities and museums, are regarded as among the finest in the country. Yet taxes, in the opinion of qualified judges, are reasonable. In overall taxation per capita Chicago ranks below eight of the fifteen largest cities in the United States. And studies show that generally local and state taxes on manufacturing industries are only a small fraction of gross income.

The Time Is Now—At the present time industry is seeking to take advantage of strategic location as never before. Progressive businessmen are appraising the factors that make for the most economic location of their facilities. They are examining the unique features which make Chicago and its surrounding area the first choice for most industries. We are glad to assist their studies in as great detail as may be required. We are supplying them with services of trained industrial engineers who know intimately the resources that the territory commands. We will welcome your inquiry, too, and treat it confidentially.

Industries locating in this area have these outstanding advantages

Railroad Center of the United States • World Airport
Inland Waterways • Geographical Center of U. S.
Population • Great Financial Center • The "Great Central Market" • Food Producing and Processing Center • Leader in Iron and Steel Manufacturing
Good Labor Relations Record • 2,500,000 Kilowatts of Power • Tremendous Coal Reserves • Abundant Gas and Oil • Good Government • Good Living

The rural telephone job is going ahead fast

WE ARE shifting as rapidly as possible into high gear on our $3,000,000 program to provide more and better rural telephone service.

Rural telephones are now being installed and service improvements are being made at an increasing pace.

Of course, it's a big job and can't be done overnight. There are places where switchboards must be installed or enlarged, and sometimes new buildings put up. In other places, miles of new lines must be built before service can be provided.

But we are on our way to give telephone service to all who want it, and to improve it as fast as we can.

Check Points: Plans are being made to hold the famous Cleveland Air Races this year, including races of jet propelled planes. Also the site has not as yet been determined, but plans are being made for a World's Fair in 1947, featuring Air Races from England to Sydney, Australia and New York to Sydney. Cessna has just announced a new line of popular priced planes. The Cessna 140 selling at under three thousand has the answer to many a pilot's prayers, a self starter and generator. Their ads running in national magazines claim for the landing gear, young gal student whose first lesson "it tiptoes across rough fields"! That I'd like to see.

Learning to Fly! Remember Candy who was described in this column a few weeks ago. Well, here are the Highlights of her second lesson. Saturday, Candy came bouncing into the Flight Office and when her instructor said the weather was ok, they could go up, she looked happy as a skylark. First, we listened as he briefed her at the blackboard. He said, "Today after trying a few turns by coordinating stick and rudder, we'll learn how to 'crab', and then how to do S turns. He drew a line on the board and said 'that's a road and the wind is coming from directly right of the road. Now, when trying to fly in the direction of the road and follow it's path, you have to head (crab) the plane slightly into the wind, or it will blow you away from the road, to the left.' Candy said: 'Just like when you try to go straight across a river in a canoe and have to head the canoe into the current or drift downstream.' 'Right', said the instructor. He continued talking, 'Now for S turns. As the name implies, you make two half circles on each side of the road. The trick is to make both half circles equal in size, not letting the wind drift you out of position. Candy looked as puzzled as you probably do right now, and the instructor said, don't worry about it, let's go up, and you can learn by doing.'

That's what Candy was waiting for. And up they went! When they came down Candy seemed to be floating on clouds. She said that S turns were what she had seen a lot of airliners doing. And she was lifted to 7th Heaven when someone answered that airline pilots practice S turns, as long as they fly, they're an important maneuver! Next Week: Candy learns how to fly a traffic pattern.

Scenes at Rubinkam: The new clubhouse at the airport is rapidly going up, but 2nd Lt. Rudolph Wolak thinks it's the work of gremlins and finfelas. The other day he was very busy talking about how little the other men were doing, which included his brother Lt. Walter Wolak and Lt. Jack Morton. While all this was going on Capt. Neil (doo the dentist) Kingston was driving nails, stead of drilling! This finfela suggests that we have a painting party to put the finishing touch to the Club house.

Sunday, during the peak of a snow storm, we could hear, but not see Army planes flying low directly overhead. A Stearman landed and was grounded. Under these conditions, I was much surprised to see a Cub from another airport come in, and then nonchalantly take off again. Before it was 50 feet off the runway, the snow swallowed it from view.

Chicago-Hammond Airnews: Norman Nevinger jumped from first solo to Private Pilot in just 6 months. That's really hurrying up! Floyd "Hank" Ford Flight Instructor is teaching ground school evenings at Hammond Tech. Alfredo Santiago soloed recently in his own PT 17. Lois Zelesky, who has been often mentioned in this column as Zeke, climbed out of her grease monkey kab, and right into bridal finery at Albuquerque, New Mexico. That's all for now.

SERVICEMEN'S LETTERS

Mrs. H. Kruspe, Chairman

Ansbach, Germany, Nov. 25, 1945

Dear Mrs. Kruspe: I want to thank you and the ladies which made the swell Christmas package possible. I received my very swell package the other day. It was really a swell assortment of things. It really doesn't seem that once again Christmas is so near. I hope by next Christmas we can all enjoy it at home. I am stationed at a large airfield about 25 miles from Nurnberg. We have been losing lots of men now, but still work goes on. I am in fine health and as far as living conditions are concerned, we have very fine rooms which are steam heated. We have a nice radio in our room, so it is very cozy.

The weather has been rather nice for so late in the year. The people over here say the German winter is very severe. We had a very nice Thanksgiving dinner here. Plenty of turkey with all the trimmings. We have a nice Red Cross club and theatre, so we do have some place to go. The Squadron has a very beautiful club room which is open every evening. A squadron orchestra plays for us once a week in the Club.

I am working in the orderly room as chief clerk and I find my work very interesting. I haven't much more to write about, so once again, thanks for the swell Christmas package and a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Another Orland Soldier
Owen Nicolai

Orland Park, Dec. 20, 1945
American Legion Auxiliary,

Dear Mrs. Kruspe: Just a few lines to express my appreciation for the lovely Christmas box I received.

I also want to commend you on all the other things you did while I was in the service.

Sincerely,
Harold Helenhouse

Barksdale Fld., La. Christmas Day
Dear Mrs. Kruspe:

Many thanks for your lovely gift box I sincerely hope this will be the last Christmas we will have to spend in the Army. It has been a long, long time.

Sincerely,
Roy Glahn

The Red Cross Nurse's Aide Corps is instituting daytime training classes for its peacetime Nurse's Aid program which goes into effect May 1, 1946. The Red Cross Nurse's Aid Corps was inaugurated to meet a wartime emergency. However, the record of these volunteers has been so outstanding that National Headquarters has suggested that Chapters plan to continue the Nurse's Aid program on a peacetime basis.

To meet the nursing shortage, which still exists in civilian hospitals, the termination date of the war emergency program has been extended to May 1 for Chicago area hospitals in which Red Cross Nurse's Aides are serving. Nine of these hospitals already have been able to release their nurse's aides. After May 1 when the peacetime program is inaugurated, the services of the Red Cross Nurse's Aides will be limited to Veteran's and Military hospitals.

pitals, U. S. Public Health Service hospitals and Cook County hospital.

There is also a need for teachers in crafts in the Arts and Skills Corps. Instructors who can teach crafts to bedridden men in the wards are urgently needed at Vaughn General and U. S. Naval hospitals.

A class to teach craft techniques to amateurs will be offered at the Red Cross Arts and Skills corps workshop, 529 S. Wabash Ave., starting Feb. 4th. The class will meet Mondays and Wednesdays, 10 to 4 for a period of 5 weeks. Call Wabash 7850 to volunteer.

NEW State Law every motorist must know

In Effect January 1, 1946

Do You Know...

- The new Safety Responsibility Law affects every motorist in the State of Illinois?
- After January 1, every motorist must qualify under the new law or risk his right to drive?
- Reckless and irresponsible motorists can lose their licenses and registration plates forever?
- Careful, responsible motorists will have new protection against financial losses from accidents?
- You must report an accident even if you weren't to blame?

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 20, was:

"LIFE"

The Golden Text was:

"He that soweth with his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting." (Gal. 6: 8).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible:

"The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? the Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid? . . . One thing have I desired of the Lord, that will I seek after; that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the Lord, and to enquire in his temple . . . O bless our God, ye people, and make the voice of his praise to be heard: Which holdeth our soul in life, and suffereth not our feet to be moved." (Ps. 27: 1, 4; 66: 8, 9).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:

"God is divine Life, and life is no more confined to the forms which reflect it than substance is in its shadow. If life were in mortal man or material things, it would be subject to their limitations and would end in death. Life is Mind, the creator reflected in His creations . . . Life is divine Principle, Mind, Soul, Spirit. Life is without beginning and without end. Eternity, not time, expresses the thought of Life, and time is no part of eternity." (pp. 331, 468).

YOU learn a little as the years pass by. Not much. Just a little. One of the few things I've learned this season, meaning 1945, is that the word "greatest" doesn't belong in sport. There is no such word.

Grantland Rice

There never was and never will be a "greatest" football or baseball team—a "greatest" golfer or "greatest" pitcher or "greatest" anything. The word is simply too big for the human race to handle. The word "good" is different. Even the word "great" in sport has been overused. Look over the list—Ty Cobb and Babe Ruth in baseball—Jim Thorpe, Pudge Heffelfinger, Bronko Nagurski, Red Grange, and 20 others in football.

Among the pitchers—Cy Young, Mathewson, Johnson, Alexander, and on.

Among the golfers—Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen, Byron Nelson, Harry Vardon.

Among the fighters or boxers—Dempsey, Jeffries, Louis. I can give you 10 more.

Among the greatest college football teams—Army 1945, Notre Dame 1943, Notre Dame 1930, Minnesota, Southern California, Pittsburgh, Alabama 1935, Michigan and Yale in the old days. All good, maybe great. But none of them the greatest.

Baseball teams—The Cubs of 1908-1910, the Athletics of 1910-1913. The Yankees at various stages.

All good—few great—none the greatest.

Who Is Football's Greatest?

Is Doc Blanchard greater than Bronko Nagurski? Certainly not. Not yet. In fact Minnesota and Michigan camp followers will tell you that fast 230-pound Bill Daly is a greater offensive back than either Nagurski or Blanchard. And they can be right. I can name you more than a few backs that might be more valuable to a team than either Nagurski or Blanchard.

The greatest passer or the greatest pass receiver? Sammy Baugh or Don Hutson. Maybe. But Greasy Neale says he would rather have Sid Luckman than Baugh and Hutson combined. Maybe Greasy is wrong. Maybe he isn't. Who is going to know? Greasy would rather have Van Buren than any back he ever saw. Bert Bell of the Steelers would rather have Bill Dudley for all-around value. I think Clint Frank of Yale is more valuable than either.

I put this complicated problem up to Greasy Neale. "Maybe I'd rather have Clint Frank," he said. "I mean taken every way." As fine as Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis are, I don't think either can do all the things that Clint Frank could do.

We can move into other fields to prove there is no such word as "greatest."

Man o' War or Exterminator? Man o' War quit as a 3-year-old. Man o' War is the symbol of racing greatness. But Exterminator ran and won for many years—from six furlongs to two miles—from 120 pounds to 140 pounds.

As we move along I still say there is no greatest. There is neither an individual star, a team or a horse that any one can put above all others in competition. Although Pudge Heffelfinger had one unchallenged football record at least. He was an All-America in 1889 and just as good 30 years later when he was 53.

Who can say whether Bobby Jones, Harry Vardon, Walter Hagen or Byron Nelson was the greater golfer? Hagen beat Jones 12 and 11 in a 72-hole match. But Jones beat Hagen 10 straight years in the U. S. Open, where the blue chips were down.

Modern Advantages

Only yesterday I ran across an old-timer who had run the 100-yard dash against Arthur Duffy and Bernie Wefers, in the fast time of 9.6.

"Don't forget," he said, "this time was over a slow track with bad running shoes. Under modern conditions either Duffy or Wefers could have beaten Jesse Owen, Paddock or any other modern sprinter."

So, again, who is the greatest sprinter? The answer is nobody. Games are played under different conditions, where the modern bunch have all the better of the breaks in every way. They get the faster tracks, the better equipment, the better groomed and easier golf courses, the better coaching and training in every form of sport, the better chance to improve.

There isn't a man connected with sport for the last 50 years, or a team, that could be called "the greatest." There has never been a greatest football player, a greatest baseball player, or a greatest anything else.

In other words, sport has known no superman, and neither has the human race in any other form of existence. Unknown thousands with the same break could have surpassed famous names. This outburst is a part answer to those who keep writing in asking about "the greatest" in various lines. It is still worth while just to be good.

Farm Productivity Must Be Increased

Soil Treatment Need Be Given Consideration

Warning that farmers are "selling their soil fertility capital and calling it a profit," Dr. George N. Hoffer, agronomist of LaFayette, Ind., urged greater application of scientific knowledge and research as a means of maintaining farm productivity.

"Successful farming requires the closest understanding and co-operation with nature," he pointed out. "Agricultural research is directed constantly toward learning more and more of the unchanging biological principles governing production of crops as well as animals.

Beans as well as all other crops will respond to proper soil management.

"Better crops and animals are produced by applying those principles and helping the unaided handiwork of nature."

"Soil tests indicate the available nutrients already in the soil. They point to the need of supplementary applications of fertilizers for maximum yields of nutritious crops."

"Growers are also becoming acquainted with the symptoms of plant-nutrient deficiencies, not only of potash, but of nitrogen, phosphorus, boron and other nutrients which are appearing in many crops in various soils."

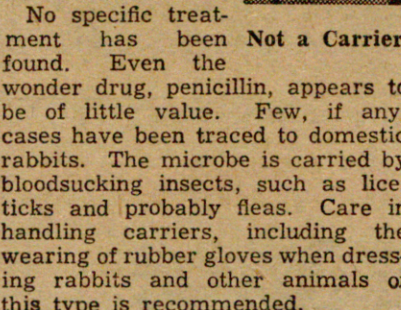

"A deficiency of any one of these nutrients may limit profits and lead toward bankruptcy unless remedial measures are applied."

"Due to the constant losses of soil fertility caused by erosion, crop removals, leaching, loss of organic matter, and the failure of some growers to fertilize their crops adequately, practically all crops respond to soil treatment."

Rabbit Is Not Only Tularemia Carrier

While it is true that nearly 90 per cent of human infections with tularemia result from contact with rabbits, birds, rodents and even such animals as dogs, cats, coyotes, foxes, hogs and sheep have been reported as carriers by the American Medical association.

No specific treatment has been found. Even the wonder drug, penicillin, appears to be of little value. Few, if any, cases have been traced to domestic rabbits. The microbe is carried by bloodsucking insects, such as lice, ticks and probably fleas. Care in handling carriers, including the wearing of rubber gloves when dressing rabbits and other animals of this type is recommended.

Knapsack Feed Box

This type of knapsack feeder is not only easy to construct, but can also be used for hand seeding.

This box is convenient for carrying feed where a cart is not practical. Should be made as light as possible; 3/4 inch plywood is most desirable. A satisfactory size would be a bottom measurement of 18 inches by 12 inches with a height of 12 inches.

Danger of Drugs

The intrusion of certain wholesale commercial and retail drug interests in the field of animal health, in unrestricted selling of biological and pharmaceutical products which could be harmful to the livestock industry if improperly used, is attracting federal attention.

Farmers are urged to purchase only from a reliable firm, only such products that have been tested and proven suitable for their particular need by recognized authorities

THAT'S TELLING 'EM

A mother took her seven-year-old daughter to a very progressive, modern school. Among the questions asked was this one: "Are you a little girl or little boy?"

The little girl answered: "I'm a boy."

Well, the teacher went on at a great rate, scaring the poor mother to death by saying the child was psychologically confused, that she should be put with the group of problem children, she wasn't quite bright, etc. On the way home the mother said: "Darling, why did you say you were a little boy?"

Her daughter gave her a long look. "Well, when anybody asks me a dumb question, I give a dumb answer."

A Woman's Hat

By ETHELYN PARKINSON

McClure Newspaper Syndicate.
WNU Features.

AFTER being married to Tot for fifteen years George Witherbee had learned to expect just anything at breakfast. Still, he was a bit alarmed the morning Tot suddenly burst into tears. "What's wrong, honey?" he asked gently.

Tot gulped and stuttered, "I'm so-o unpopular. And I've got to make that speech at the United Clubs Bond drive tonight. I represent the Woman's Club. Each speaker is up for ten minutes and there are ten minutes for buying bonds. I just know that no one will buy after I speak. Everyone will buy for Janey Watson, representing the Mothers' Club. She has wonderful clothes and stage presence and personality."

"Nonsense!" George said. He knew Tot's faults but he knew that she was just as good and twice as patriotic as Janey Watson. As to her wardrobe, Tot really had sacrificed to buy bonds. It must have hurt, because she loved frivolous

"So you've been saving for something."

expensive things. He reached in his pocket. "Here, honey. Dress up."

"It won't help a bit," Tot sobbed. But later she thought it over. Her hat was a wreck. It had been very nice—a little skullcap of sequins with a veil. But for some time she had been conscious of its shabbiness. A new hat would give her a lift.

Tot worked on her speech all day. Toward evening she dressed in her best looking suit and went downtown. Just before dinner time she found the hat. It was a tiny, flowered, foolish thing—very bright and light as froth. It had a perky bit of a veil. To Tot it was magic. It made her feel young and gay, yet poised and self-confident. "I'll take it," she told the indifferent salesgirl.

George's smile flashed proudly when he saw her. "Well, well! Feeling better?"

They went directly to the Bond Drive and Tot hurried to the platform with the other speakers. "You look lovely," she told Janey Watson.

Janey must have spent the day in the beauty parlor and she was in a brand-new outfit from top to toe. So were Marge Wilson and Alice Lawe. But no one had as pretty a hat as Tot's!

Alice spoke first. She sold fifteen thousand dollars' worth of bonds. Janey was next. She sparkled. She was coquettish. She addressed her remarks to "You great big handsome gentlemen." Her sales amounted to six thousand dollars.

"I can't understand it," Tot whispered to Alice.

"I can," Alice said. "The great big handsome gentlemen's wives didn't like Janey's approach."

Tot was next. She saw George's proud look. She remembered her hat and kept her chin up. Her speech was titled, "Do You Really Need It?"

"So you've been saving for something," Tot finished. "Do you really need it? If not, go without it! The boys really do need the things your bond money will buy!"

The terrific applause amazed and frightened her a little. Forty thousand dollars were chalked up for her. She sat down flushed with happiness.

Marge spoke last. Her sales were low, possibly because almost everyone had bought all they could. Anyway, Tot was the winner.

Then Tot saw Janey Watson coming toward her. Janey was smiling too, but her eyes were green. "Congratulations, Tot. You were very clever. Of course, dear, no one but you would think of making a bond speech in that hat. I kept wondering if it has any salvage value."

Tot's face flamed. She knew the hat was inexpensive, but Janey wasn't usually sarcastic. Well, it was a clear case of sour grapes! Tot opened her mouth to say so, glanced in a mirror—and was silent. "I suppose you went over big because everyone could see that you practiced what you preached," Janey said with a shrug.

Tot laughed. "That was the general idea." She glanced in the mirror again. Her face was radiant, and she was wearing her old hat. Thank heaven for that indifferent salesgirl!

Migratory Birds Banded
And Flights Recorded

Since 1920, the U. S. biological survey, now a part of the fish and wildlife service, has been collecting data on the migratory habits of birds with the co-operation of 2,500 licensed amateurs in the U. S. and Canada.

Upon capturing his birds, alive and unharmed, the amateur attaches an official, serially numbered aluminum band to the leg of each bird, sets it free and sends all details to the government. Most persons retaking the birds later comply with the request on the band to notify the wildlife service and it, in turn, notifies the banders.

Gives Advise To Farmers

Farmers are advised by Mr. Byron Gaskill, Chairman of the Will County AAA Committee, to use considerable discretion in planning their 1946 poultry and egg production operations. During the war farmers geared themselves to an egg production 50 percent greater than during the prewar period. Now we are faced with reduced wartime outlets for these products. Military and lend lease requirements for 1946 will be less. On the basis of these and other factors, the over all recommended goals call for a 17 percent reduction in the number of chickens on farms, and a 15 percent reduction in egg production.

Also indicative of the prospective trend in egg prices in the recently announced price support program to be placed in effect should the U. S. average farm price for eggs threaten to drop below ninety percent of parity. Under this plan the support will be in this, the midwest, area at an average farm price of 27 cents a dozen. Any eggs that the Government might purchase will be disposed of in shipments abroad, or sold to other Government agencies, or used in the school lunch program and public institutions.

Mr. Gaskill further suggests that the farmers of the county keep well informed on the poultry and egg situation, that they consider the possibility of closer culling of farm flocks, and that they pay particular attention to the local goals which should be announced within a couple of weeks. These goals will prove to be good guides in planning 1946 operations.

THE LOW DOWN from HICKORY GROVE

This speech of Uncle Harry's, the one about the state of the nation and the mess we are in, well, there was one part where the president was 100 percent on the beam—and right—and steppin' on nobody's toes. And no difference about your politics, you can do as Uncle Harry says—or we can keep on being in a mess. He says, write to Congress. So I took his advice. And I wrote the boss-man himself direct, and sent a copy to our separator.

I says, Mr. President, your program like you explained on the air, where you want to put Uncle Sambo in the game and be everything from playing first base and second base and right and left field, etc. versus just being the umpire, it is 100 percent wrong. I didn't mince words. The USA is not headed for a crack-up, and chaos is not around the corner, and no revolution is brewing, I says, if you don't let the boys with the horn-rimmed specs lead you off the path and into the ways of how it is there on the Volga. Two million guys, I says, in all kinds of bur-eaus, they can think up plenty. And with 2 million still there, it is no wonder there is dirty work at the cross-roads. Don't be mislead and be a sucker, I says—and I thank you for asking me to write.

Yours with the low down,

JO SERRA

Vet and Dog Pal Reunited

Weymouth, Mass.—"Tiny", the German shepherd dog, who was ex-PFC Johnnie Glynn's battlefield and hospital pal, overseas, has been reunited with his former G. I. master here, thanks to The American Legion.

The Cyril P. Morrisette Post 294 at West Quincy, Mass., raised more than $300 for the dog's fare from Germany. The money was cabled to Glynn, who was then at the staging area at Le-Harve, France. Glynn reached home November 25. He didn't hear of "Tiny" for many weeks.

Finally a telegram arrived that "Tiny" had reached New York. Eventually the dog arrived at South Station in Boston. Glynn and Commander William J. Keefe of the Morrisette Post were there to meet him.

"Tiny's" homecoming here created quite a stir. Residents from all over town came out into the snow to see the dog.

Glynn adopted the dog on a battlefield last May. The dog became his constant companion later in a hospital where Glynn was recovering from two broken legs shattered by a German shell. When Glynn was ordered home he was heartbroken because he lacked funds for "Tiny's" transportation. He could only raise $18. The story reached the Morrisette Post, The West Quincy Legionnaires knew how a soldier can love a dog, and promptly raised the funds for "Tiny's" fare.
